The election will be conducted from 12 until 3 p. m. Monday, March 26, by representatives of the Men's Student Council and the Junior Prom committee. The winner will be declared queen and the two receiving the next highest number of votes will become attendants. Names of the three winners will not be announced until the night of the Junior Prom, April 6, in the Alumni gymnasium.

Each fraternity will be represented by one member and the independent men will have two representatives.

The Prom coronation ceremony will be conducted early in the evening with a special no-break following immediately. Leader-Violinist of Philharmonic Orchestra Is Well-Received by Audience

By TOM SCOTT

The University Philharmonic orchestra formally closed its season Sunday afternoon in Memorial hall with a vesper program, of which the outstanding feature was the Bruch Violin concerto. The violin solo was played by Prof. Carl A. Lampert, head of the music department and formerly a member of the Chicago Symphony orchestra during its famous career under Theodore Thomas.

Professor Lampert gave a brilliant rendition of the difficult solo and was so well received by the audience that an encore was offered. He responded with a special arrangement for violin, without accompaniment.

The "Sextette" from Luciani Lammormoor, Professor Lampert's success with the "Sextette" was quite a feat, for it is no easy matter to make a single violin do the work of the six voices ordinarily required for Donizetti's celebrated aria.

During the playing of the concerto and the overture to Weber's "Der Frieschutz" the orchestra was conducted by Alexander Capurso, a student from Philadelphia, Pa. Mr. Capurso, who is already known on the campus for his ability as a composer, proved himself a capable conductor, wielding the baton with grace and efficiency.

Kentucky is included in the Southern division, and in 1930 the University team won the Southern championship. The results of the competition for this year will be released in the first week of May.

PERMIT TO GIVE JOBS TO WOMEN IN COUNTY

Twenty-five Women Are Now
Employed on Campus
Projects

M. J. Crutcher, superintendent of buildings and grounds, announced yesterday that the University recently has been granted a permit for another CWA project. The permit was given at the request of the CWA in Louisville through President McVey, and its purpose is to give employment to Fayette county women. It is the first project of its kind to be given to Fayette county.

At present 25 women have been employed in making napkins and table covers for the University cafeteria, repairing sheets and slip covers, and doing general sewing for the men's and women's dormitories. They also are making drop cloths for painters; repairing awnings, tarpaulins, and curtains, and doing a large amount of special cleaning.

Mr. Crutcher also stated that the grading proposition at the north side of the training school is almost complete. The finishing touches will be made as soon as the weather is suitable.

The workmen are now grading the grounds across Scott street from the Training school. The plan there is to make it into a play ground for the students of the Training school. There will be a diamond ball court, six tennis courts, four volleyball courts, and ample space for croquet and other outdoor games.

According to Mr. Crutcher the University has also been given an extension of time on such projects as exterior painting, road building, and road repairing.

The schedule for Coach Bernie Shively's track team has been released for this season and the squad will see its first competition against Vanderbilt at Nashville, April 14.

On March 24, Doug Parrish, last year's "one man track team" and a looming star of this year's squad, will run in the 60 yard high and 60 yard low hurdle events at the Butler Relay by invitation. This meet, sponsored by Butler college, Indianapolis, will be held in the field house at Indianapolis.

The regular meets for the squad will continue through May 19 with the Southeastern conference tourney in Birmingham closing the season. Other meets for this season are: April 14, Vanderbilt at Nashville; April 21, Georgia Tech, here; April 28, Hanover college, here; April 30, Berea college, here; May 5, University of Tennessee at Knoxville; and May 19, Southeastern conference meet at Birmingham.

Captain Parrish and Gilmer are slated for action in the 100 and 220-yard dashes. Long and Cassidy will run the 880-yard dash and Hoeker will represent Kentucky in the mile and two-mile events. Kercheval and Parrish probably will run the 120 and 220 hurdles while Kercheval and Rupert will see action in the weights. Gilmer and Oliney are contenders for high jump laurels.

BRIDGE TEAMS WILL CLASH

Members of Phi Delta Theta and of Kappa Alpha will engage in a round of the bridge tournament, sponsored by the Toggery Shop, at 8:30 p. m. tonight in the Toggery Shop. On Thursday night, the members of Phi Kappa Tau will play against representatives of Delta Tau Delta.

Student Building Will Unify
University Students---Sulzer

By E. G. SULZER

A unified student body is an essential need of the University of Kentucky, and this ideal will fail to be realized until a student building is in use. The tendency for students to wish to be together for purposes of discussions, games, and other broadening influences is a natural and worthy one. It is a pity that opportunities on the campus are so limited at the present time that students who wish to enjoy such social contacts must either congregate in drug stores, restaurants, and beer parlors, or must limit their intimate friends to those of their own fraternities or dormitories.

With the completion of a student union building, monthly mass meetings of the University men and women are possibilities during which an inspirational talk, a movie, a few

George Heaton
To Have Charge Of Forum Meet

"A College Student's Religion" Will Be Discussed
Tonight

"A College Student's Religion" will be the subject for discussion at the fourth Student Forum to be held tonight in Patterson hall. The Rev. George D. Heaton, pastor of the Felix Memorial church and leader of the Pitkin club, will lead the discussion.

Questions which will be discussed include: "To what extent does a modern student's religion give in to practical situations?" "Does religion have anything to say on the subject of national and international problems?" "Does it assist the student in finding a criteria for judgments in personal and social issues?"

Kitty Cook, chairman of the Forum committee, will preside and introduce Reverend Heaton. All students are cordially invited to attend.

Dean Edward Wiest was the guest speaker at the last meeting of the forum which was attended by 75 students. Dean Wiest gave a survey of the emergency legislation under the "New Deal." Questions of acts were raised. The conclusion was reached that some type of social government will have to be worked out to continue the plans of the present administration. Dr. Esther Cole presided over the meeting and led the discussion.

According to M. J. Crutcher, superintendent of buildings and grounds, Doctor McVey had received word from the presidents of two tobacco companies that steps will be taken to eliminate the smoke from the drying plants of the tobacco companies near the University campus.

In answer to a letter from Doctor McVey, the president of the American Tobacco company sent a telegram saying that after the present redrying season, a device will be installed to do away with the smoke from its plant.

The Liggett and Myers Tobacco company sent an engineer to look over its plant, and he said that after this year they would remodel the boiler system of their plant and install a stoker system.

Lexingtonians Privileged To Watch Noted Sculptor

By SARAH GENTRY

Lexingtonians have had access to a rare treat during the last few days. Augustus Dondred H. Build, noted young sculptor from New York, has been in the city at the old University book store on Short street working on several statues, and the public has had the privilege of being allowed to watch him at work.

Mr. Build has been molding busts of James Lane Allen, former poet-laureate of Kentucky and Samuel Roberts, founder of The Lexington Leader. He will begin work soon on a likeness of Dr. Frank L. McVey, president of the University.

The interesting young sculptor, who has studied and practiced his art for 14 years, works with a style all his own. Having started his college work at Syracuse university in New York, he has studied at Johns Hopkins, the Metropolitan in New York, and the Louvre in Paris. He completed his work in Florence, Italy. His artistry, as he explained, tends toward Italian influence and his style is not like that of other sculptors.

Large audiences each day have watched Mr. Build at his work. The process which he followed, although really quite simple, is rather difficult to understand. With common clay and water mixed he forms a detailed likeness of his subject and over this places a thick layer of a substance that resembles plaster paris but which is really a gypsum 20 times stonger than the plaster. When this is perfectly shaped he permits it to dry and then cracks off the gypsum layer. This cast is then fitted back together and the mixture that is to make a final mold is poured into it. This last mixture is composed of 40 percent marble, 50 percent dental stone plaster, and 10 percent chemicals. The plaster cast is again cracked off and the completed marble bust remains.

Mr. Build has extended an invitation to all University students to visit him and has expressed the hope that all students who are interested in sculpture will take advantage of his free classes which he intends to start next week. Mr. Build has made these classes possible because he wishes to convey to others that technique which he has acquired from individual work.

DANVILLE TO WIN
STATE TOURNEY

Tomcats Capture Cage Title

VICTORY OVER PARIS
PEPPED UP CHAMPS

Jenkins' Men Were Not Doped
to Get by Semi-Finals
This Year

By NORMAN GARLING

When the final gun of the Ashland-Danville game cracked Saturday night in the Alumni gymnasium it brought to a close the seventeenth annual state basketball tournament and gave to Ashland the state championship for the second consecutive year, after they had defeated Danville in a hard fought battle, 26 to 13.

Ashland, doped not to get by the semi-finals came through the entire tournament in great style, displaying a brand of basketball that was unbeatable.

In the first round game, Ashland defeated Paris by a score of 27 to 21, and it was a game that held the crowd in suspense. At the half, the score was tied, 10 to 10, but the Tomcats were the more aggressive team, and soon rolled over the Parisians.

Upon entering the second day's play, Ashland defeated the highly touted Hazard team by a margin of three points, 18 to 15, in one of the most thrilling games of the tourney. Both teams ran neck and neck during the first three quarters, but in the final frame the Tomcats got the jump on Hazard and out-scored the foe in the final minutes of play.

Ashland started the semi-final game against Hazel Green with handicapping odds but promptly showed that the dopers were wrong again when the Tomcats won by 13 to 7, in the lowest scoring game of the tournament. The close guarding displayed by both teams in this game was a thing of note, and the players were also spectacular in their floor work.

The Tomcats entered the finals Saturday night against the Danville Admirals, the lucky team of the tourney, winning all three of their games by a margin of two points each.

After winning the semi-final game, Ashland was booked to win the tournament with ease, and that is just what happened. During this year the Tomcats and the Admirals had met twice before and Ashland defeated them on both occasions.

The following all-tournament team was selected: forwards—Dorsey, Horse Cave; Carson, Danville; Patton, Hazel Green; centers—O'Mara, Ashland, and Ross, Horse Cave; guards—Rice, Ashland; Combs, Hazard, and Craigs, Ashland. Honorable mention went to Spicer, Lexington; Cotton, Danville; Bell, Lexington; Lualien, Paris; Smith, Hazel Green, and Cundiff, Danville.

THE HIGH SCHOOL TOURNAMENT

The state high school basketball tournament has been concluded with Ashland, winners of the contest in 1933, again pulling out in front to claim the championship crown. Coach Paul Jenkins, himself a graduate of the University, and the boys in whom were intrusted the hopes of Boyd county for another successful season, are to be congratulated for their splendid showing.

However, Ashland is not the only team taking part in the tourney deserving of praise. Every one of those athletes, representing 16 schools, fought determinedly in an attempt to score a victory for his alma mater; each boy had confidence in his team, and was disappointed when it lost. Nevertheless, a fine spirit of sportsmanship prevailed, which is commendatory, and is indicative of the type of basketball player who will be striving for another championship in a few years, a victory for Kentucky.

Teams participating in a basketball tournament, whether they be of high school or college standing, play under a serious handicap. A slight ease of nerves, a little too much eagerness, an over balancing confidence, each or all can easily twist victory into defeat. Oftentimes a "dark horse" will emerge champion for just that reason. Elimination in the district and regional meets, however, makes it fairly certain that the best teams in the state will take part in the tournament held annually at the University.

Ashland was regarded generally as the favorite from the first, and this fact coupled with their victory of last year loomed as a disadvantage to the champions. Notwithstanding, the team played excellent ball throughout the tournament, exhibiting the training that has characterized Coach Jenkin's teams since his early days of coaching at Ashland. Now that they have annexed the championship, the remainder of the state will be squarely behind them if they go to the national meet at Chicago.

Aside from the opportunity that Lexingtonians have had to witness stellar basketball as displayed by the pick of Kentucky's athletes, the benefits derived from the tournament have been felt by the University and by businesses of the town. The University gains in that it has created an interest for boys who may some day matriculate here; merchants, chants, hotels, and other places of business gain materially.

Thousands of people from throughout the state journeyed here to watch and cheer their respective teams; most of them are satisfied that the tournament was conducted fairly and efficiently. Even as they are proud of their boys, so are we also proud of them, and hope that many of the athletes will make the University their home during their college days.

THE STROLLER REVUE

Last Friday, Strollers, student dramatic organization, took the first major step toward actual production of their spring revue in the form of the try-outs, which were held from 3 to 4:30 p. m. in the Guignol theater under the supervision of Frank Fowler. From the arrangements that already have been made, it seems quite certain that the show, which will be presented two nights during the week of April 23, will be the best in the history of the organization.

There are several reasons for making this statement, the principal one being the outstanding ability of the men who have been chosen to take charge of the production, Frank Fowler as director and Prof. L. Cass Robinson as manager. Another reason is the well-advised choice of the musical comedy to be given, "Hit the Deck." This is a show which has gained national popularity, has a musical score par excellence, and is well within the reach of the available talent.

However, before the show can be presented, a minimum of 150 patrons must be solicited to pay the royalty and other pre-production expenses. This plan consists merely in reserving the above number of reserved seats to townspeople and faculty members who are interested in aiding the organization to the extent of serving as patrons by buying these tickets, thus making the production possible. Every production must be financed in some way, and this plan was selected by the organization as being the best.

A committee has been appointed to take charge of the advance ticket sales and the entire dramatic group is assisting. Little trouble should be had in securing the required number of persons who will be willing and glad of the opportunity of aiding in this manner the production of the best Stroller Revue of all times!

NRA LOOKS TO THE FUTURE

At the close of his summary of the "President's alphabet" at the Student forum last Tuesday night Dean West, College of Commerce, in expressing his opinion as to the effect the modern economical trend would have on the college graduate of the near future, stated that it might not be a bad idea for the college youths of today to prepare for, and look forward to, government jobs.

It is becoming quite apparent that some of Roosevelt's plans which were formed as temporary measures are moving into the permanent stage. Whether the CWA or a similar policy will be carried on indefinitely as a method of unemployment relief is extremely uncertain, but the NRA, in revised and improved form, is going to be permanent. In addition, the Public Works Administration is really just beginning to function, the Tennessee Valley Project is a long time venture, the Deposit Insurance, The Devalued Dollar, and the Securities Law seem destined to stay with us.

Last week General Johnson declared his "field day" for NRA critics, but almost before anyone could open his mouth, he got the jump on his critics by admitting that the NRA was far from perfect and announcing his own 12-point program for improving it. He scored the first touchdown at his own "field meet!"

Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, wife of the governor of Pennsylvania delivered one of the first and strongest attacks, and scored on the General for failing to protect union labor in her state. She showed rather definitely that big industrialists had been allowed to escape while the codes were severely enforced in connection with "beauty parlors and Chinese laundries." This type of criticism is indeed constructive for the day after Mrs. Pinchot spoke, the National Labor Board called upon the Department of Justice to proceed against the Weirton Steel company for violation of the National Industrial Act and Presidential orders thereunder. At the same time, Senator Robert F. Wagner, chairman of the board, introduced a bill in the Senate which would strike at company unions and guarantee company recognition of organized workers.

Other criticisms ranged all the way from a Communist's "basic disagreement with the NRA" to requests for minor adjustments in various codes. For the most part, the criticisms of the NRA as a whole may be divided into three groups: first, that the President, the man who is sponsoring the whole thing, is no miracle man, and therefore should not hope to accomplish this ideal. In answer to this it may be shown quite clearly that Mr. Roosevelt does not claim to be such. Every essential feature of his program is based upon a recognition of the fact that nearly every progressive action involves uncertainties.

The second principal criticism has been, "It simply will not work." To this Mr. Roosevelt need not reply, "Think back a year." The third criticism has been that it is unconstitutional. The Supreme Court of the United States recently, in one of the most important decisions of recent years, upholding a minimum price for milk in New York, answered that question.

However, we feel about the policy or about any of its methods, this we must admit, that confidence has returned, a thing most needed for recovery. The Blue Eagle poises for a higher and a longer flight; with teamwork the NRA cannot fail!

Jest Among Us

Gussie says: "Of course you can't live entirely on love, but it does make a mighty sweet, soothing beverage with which to wash down the bitter pills of life."

What a relief it will be when all the strife and anxiety of the forthcoming Kernel election remains only as a source for gossip.

LITERARY

Nothing to do? Just loafing? Stroll around to the library and amuse yourself with the exhibit on display. Books and books galore written about China, the exotic East. "The Crisis in China," "Swinging Lanterns," "My Lady of the Chinese Courtyard," are a few books which might interest you. There are books also which contain lovely illustrations of pottery and porcelain. An exquisite goblet-shaped cup is shown in which three red fishes show themselves under the pure white glaze. A pure red dish with its rim and hollow snow-white would delight the heart of any woman—"snake's blood mixed with powdered deer-horn." Don't be misled for that is only a quotation from a Chinese Wonder Book. Real book lovers can appreciate such a book but it is a jewel in itself for anyone who likes to read. Tapestries, curios, and Chinese designs complete this picture of Eastern loveliness.

"My dear girl, do you mean to tell me that you haven't read '100,000 Guinea Pigs'?" That was the rebuke given me by my sorority sister at open house last Friday. Which proves that all sorority girls are not as dumb as they're painted, and also, that the book must be good. Just to illustrate to you, the writer says that there is enough poison in a certain toothpaste (call me up sometime and I'll divulge the name; I'm likely to be sued for printing it, you know) to kill three people. That is a pretty bold statement but the book is full of such dynamite. Everyone's clamoring for it so you had better get busy and keep up with the times. In Washington this book has caused a big sensation because of the Tugwell Food and Drug bill which is under consideration at present.

SCRUB
If I grow bitterly,
Like a gnarled and stunted tree,
Bearing harshly of my youth
Puckered fruit that sears the mouth;
If I make of my drawn brows
An inexpressible house,
Out of which I never pry
Towards the water and the sky,
Under which I stand and hide
And hear the day go by outside;
It is that a wind too strong
Bent my back when I was young,
It is that I fear the rain
Lest it blister me again.

SEEN FROM THE PRESS BOX

By JAY LUCIAN

The basketball season was officially closed with the crowning of Ashland, for the third time, as Kentucky high school basketball champion at the termination of the 17th annual Kentucky high school basketball tournament. Capacity crowds were in attendance throughout the meeting, and in spite of upsets the fans went home well satisfied with what they saw. The officials responsible for the meet should be complimented for the smooth way in which they conducted the tournament. The referees and rival coaches should all come in for their share of the praise as well as for the many players on the various teams who showed such a fine brand of sportsmanship.

All the games came off on time and there was no delay to irk the fans. For the finals a gym twice as large as ours could have been filled. Many paying customers were forced to stand in the aisles and other available places. The crowds at the tournament at least refute the arguments of those who opposed the building of the Alumni gym with the cry that it would never be filled.

Coach Adolph Rupp is already working on next year's schedule, and, true to his promise, is already signing games with bigger and better teams. To date he has signed a game with the University of Chicago which will be played in Lexington. Arrangements have been practically completed for a game with Purdue university to be played in Louisville. Other teams in the Big Ten and eastern conferences are being contacted and probably will be added to the Big Blue's schedule.

Many of you are probably wondering what is going on in spring football practice. Coach Wynne and his assistants, Twomey, Grant, and Pribble, have been working more regularly with the squad this past week as the weather has let up. Before the beginning of last week the squad had had only about a half dozen practice days. In spite of the discouraging weather the teams have been showing an enthusiastic zip and power. The eagerness of the boys has brought about a remarkable co-operation in practice and although they have had few and irregular practice sessions, the stamp of the Notre Dame system of football, as expounded by Coach Wynne and his assistants, is already evident on the teams as they go into operation. Those of you who have watched the Wildcats in the past will scarcely recognize them under their new system. The main idea seems to be speed and the boys are coming through with it. In watching the few short scrimmages that they have had one cannot help but feel enthusiastic for the Big Blue team.

TENNIS BANQUET IS THURSDAY

The second of a series of tennis banquets will be held at 6 p. m. Thursday, March 22, at the Teacup Inn on High street. Short speeches will be given by Coach Downing, Captain Yost, and Manager Cosse. All candidates for the tennis teams and those interested in tennis are invited to attend. Those wishing to attend please turn in their names before Thursday to George Yost, Men's dormitories or to Jay Lucian, Ashland 4110.

"Campus Politics" To Be Discussed

Freshmen members of the YWCA and YMCA will hold a joint meeting at 7:15 p. m. Thursday in the recreation room of Patterson hall. "College Politics" will be the subject for discussion. Jimmy Miner, graduate and former president of the YMCA, will present the subject and lead the discussion.

Sponsors for the group are Mary Heizer, leader of the YWCA freshman group, and John Carter, leader of the YMCA freshman cabinet. Plans for a freshman social to be held April 10 by the joint groups will be completed at this meeting. Guests for the party will be senior members of the Girl Reserve and Hi-Y clubs of University high school and Henry Clay high school.

ORCHESTRA WILL GIVE PROGRAM FOR P. T. A.

The University Training school orchestra, under the direction of Louis Friedman, musical supervisor, will present the following program before the Parent-Teachers' association of the Training school at 2:45 p. m. Wednesday: Women's Glee club, Prayer for Hansel and Gretel, Humperdinch; Men's Glee club, Song of the Desert, Tschalkowsky; Girls' trio, Swedish Folk Song, and a mixed chorus, Finlandia, Sibelius.

U. OF K. DEBATE TEAM TO ENGAGE LOYOLA

The University of Kentucky debating team will meet the Loyola university team March 19 as fourth on the list of seven colleges in two states which the Loyola group will meet during this week. Their schedule includes John Carroll at Cleveland, Dennison at Cranville, University of Dayton, Kentucky here, Miami university at Oxford, and Xavier university at Cincinnati.

Scandal Snickerings

By CAMERON COFFMAN

The Rose Girl of the Week

To Bobby Sittin, Piphi from the University of Michigan, goes this week's rose... Her disguised flattery and delightful sarcasm combined with her Phi Beta Kappa and Mortar Board rating makes her a pleasing acquaintance.

What S'Matter Doc, Are You Losing Yer Grip?

'Tis said that at the recent Kappa-sig dance, at which our contemporary, Mary Agnes Bren, was in attendance with Frater Bill Howe, one of their alumni, Jim Reagon, dropped in to pay his respects... Reagon, who is also a courtier of the young lady in question, made the rounds and gave each of the co-eds a break, but alas, 'tis said that "Doc" failed to rate a dance with him.

Questions of the Week

What little incident took place in Boyd hall the other night that Chio Martha Wood Neblett does not care to have known? What group of popular students were seen "playing Indian" in the vicinity of the Iroquois Hunt club last week?

Phidelt Walter Hillenmeyer has suddenly taken a bitter dislike for rabbits... (Especially black ones).

Maybe It Was Fraternal Spirit! Several persons are still puzzled and wondering about the affection that Sigmak Bill Gottschall suddenly took for Frater Printiss Douglas recently at the SAE dance.

You Spoke Too Soon, G. L.

Phisig G. L. Crutcher has been bragging... He was overheard in a boasting statement that he "hasn't been in the scandal column all year." The only reason is that we haven't been fortunate to catch him in any of his antics... But we did hear rumored around the campus that Crutcher was married... (Of course he denied any report of this unfounded rumor).

Just a Little Senatorial Courtesy! We have been asked by numerous persons as to just how did a certain group of eds rate "being called from the balcony in the senate at Frankfort to the Lieutenant-governor's desk and given a chair in front of the governing body"... The group, which was composed of Delt Bruce Davis, Phidelt Nathan Elliott, Phil-tau Vernon Nugent, Bob Denny and the writer, was attending the legislature with a political science class... The little incident in question is accredited to the personal acquaintance of Nate Elliott and Lt.-Gov. A. B. "Happy" Chandler... Upon leaving, the state official bade each of the group a very cordial goodbye and extended each one the invitation of another visit... Vernon Nugent returned the invitation with "Okay, Happy, you come up and see me sometime."

Congrats Alf!

Word reached us a few days ago that Sigalph Alf Eckles has gone "Barbouxian" and left his badge in care of our good friend, Tridelt Elizo Barboux... Once again we say congratulations to this attractive couple.

Why Didn't You Call Out the Guard, Ed?

Pershing Rifles, campus crack drill outfit, journeyed to Camp Daniel Boone over the week-end for their annual initiation... The neophytes were put through their paces and given a touch of real army camp life... ATO Ed Wehle had the misfortune of drawing a 2 o'clock guard duty... Several of the soldiers, who attended the Alphasag dance, returned to camp very late... They spied Ed as they were returning to the camp... These bad boys proceeded to attack Ed and deprive him of gun and other military belongings and finally concluded the event by depriving him also of his pants, which they placed in a nearby tree.

From the Chio lodge comes a report that Sialoph Gene Shanklin and Martha Lowry "are just waiting around till June."

'Tis said that Ned Brent is doing his part to keep the U. S. mails in the money since his courtier, Tridelt Betsy Frye, journeyed back to her home in Augusta, Ga.

We understand that the Phisig who constantly raves about Alphasag Carolyn Johns is none other than Joe Longstreet.

Several Thriving Romances: That of Kay Billy King and Tridelt Margaret Sallie Walker... Delt Justus Vairin and Kadec Milly Gorman.

"Activities at DePauw university are creating complexes and destroying more personalities than they develop," says a recent report of a DePauw sociology student.

In the Wittenberg-Ohio Wesleyan game a total of 39 personal and two technical fouls was called on the two sides.

PETITE PIECE

By LORRAINE LEPERE

Thought while crossing the campus:

If somebody could analyze my thoughts when I'm by myself and thinking various and sundry thoughts I would be pronounced feeble minded, I'm sure. It always has been a puzzle to me how one can be sane and yet ramble on so to oneself. Right now I can think of a hundred things all at once, and devote full time to all of them.

For instance, it's fun to be in on a secret. I mean when only one or two other people know about it. Gives a sort of self satisfied, mirthful feeling that's hard to throw off. Makes one feel sort of concealed.

Just ahead of me I can see a pre-vailing romance that few people know about. It would make a good bit for the scandal column since both the principals involved are seldom mentioned therein. And that column—I wonder if a rank freshman couldn't take a better stab at it. I'd call it plenty unsatisfactory as it is, but then, it isn't any of my business. Guess I won't have anything to say if it is mentioned in my presence.

Funny thing how you feel awful tough when somebody takes you down the line about something. And you can't figure how it happened or how you were to blame. And then you start to wonder what you could have done about it, or what, can be done now that it's happened. Wonder if you wouldn't be better off to be like those trees over in front of the halls. See how they bend with the wind and offer practically no resistance—they just seem to take what comes, yet the trees still grow, and usually they grow straight and tall, too. There must be a lesson in that.

All these new pins on the campus! Certainly is laughable the way every new initiate walks along with his left hand in his pants pocket so his vest will show. And you could say that John had pinned Jim now. But it's awfully sweet to see boys and girls wearing their big sister's or their big brother's pins. A lovely custom.

I must remember to put this new romance in my column. I can start a lot of people guessing. How'll word it now? Let's see—I believe they're both upperclassmen. One of them is a member of the engineer's lodge. She's a sorority woman, but I've never been able to find out which one it is. Of course he's studious and quiet. He's going to make somebody a good engineer. But she likes life almost better

When you smoke a Chesterfield you can be sure that there isn't a purer cigarette made.

In a letter to us an eminent scientist says: "Chesterfields are just as pure as the water you drink."

Inspectors examine Chesterfields as they come from the cigarette making machines and throw out any imperfect cigarettes.
